Salt Lake City Justice Court
Community Service Instructions

1. COMMUNITY SERVICE REQUIREMENTS

A. Community service must be completed with a 501(c)(3) charitable nonprofit organization or a government agency, such as a parks department or library. You may complete all your hours at one place or use different organizations or agencies. The list below includes some options, but you do not have to use an organization on this list. You may use another qualifying nonprofit organization or government agency.

B. You may complete community service through a religious organization. The work must provide a service or benefit to the community. It cannot involve religious worship, teaching, or recruiting people to join a religion. For example, preparing meals or distributing food or clothing may qualify. Leading religious services, teaching religion, or recruiting members does not qualify.

C. You must give the court proof of the hours you completed. The proof must be on letterhead from the organization or agency and include its name, the number of hours you completed, and confirmation from the organization or agency. Give a copy to the court and keep a copy for your records.
You may email your proof to jcsaltlake@utcourts.gov.

D. You cannot use the same hours for more than one court or case order. For example, hours you already submitted to another court cannot also be used for your Salt Lake City Justice Court case.

E. If you are completing community service instead of paying a fine or fee, each hour counts as $12 toward the amount you owe. You may use a combination of community service and monetary payments to pay the balance.

2. COMMUNITY SERVICE RESOURCES

The organizations listed below have accepted people who need to complete community service for court. This list is provided only as a resource. You do not have to use an organization on this list. You may complete your hours with another organization that meets the court's requirements.

Programs and available openings may change. Contact the organization first to make sure it still accepts court-related community service and to ask about its rules. If an organization on this list no longer accepts court-related community service, please tell the court by calling 801-535-6300 or emailing jcsaltlake@utcourts.gov.
