

Success Story

Hla Thein came into CDCU in April 2017 to learn about buying a home and the resources available to him and his family. Hla and his wife immigrated to the United States from Burma. They have two children and wanted to buy a home to build a stable life for their family. Hla met with a homeownership advisor where he learned about Down Payment Assistance and how it could help him and his wife cover the upfront cost of buying a home. Hla worked with CDCU to better understand his credit rating and learn what financial decisions he needed to make in order to prepare for purchasing a home.

After a few months Hla and his wife decided they were ready to move forward. They took homebuyer education and started working with their realtor to find a home suitable for their family. CDCU helped them get pre-approved for a mortgage and find their first home. Through the assistance of CDCU and the financial support provided by Salt Lake City, Hla and his family moved into their new home in July 2017. They are happy with their new neighborhood and look forward to raising their children there.
